STILLNESS

Be Still and Know

Psalm 46:10 doesn't say 'be productive.' It says be still. That's countercultural — and it's exactly what your nervous system needs.

Stillness isn't passive.

We live in a culture that confuses busyness with purpose. But Scripture built rest into creation for a reason. Stillness is where God speaks — and where your nervous system finally exhales.

Here's what happens when you slow down.

When you're still, your cortisol drops. Your parasympathetic nervous system activates. Clarity follows. The clinical and the spiritual say the same thing: your body was made for rest.

Try this today.

3 minutes. No phone. Slow breaths. Repeat quietly: 'I am held. I am safe. I am enough.' Not a mantra — a truth your nervous system needs to hear.

You are held.
You are safe.
You are enough.

Save this for when life gets loud.
